

LINKS TO EDUCATIONAL RESOURCES FOR ARTISTS, EDUCATORS, RESEARCHERS DURING SELF ISOLATION

Around the world, the online community has joined forces to come up with resources to creatively engage as we all collectively work from home amid the outbreak of Covid 19. Museums and galleries have opened up their collections for online viewing, educators have started sharing the podcasts, books and other resources they refer to and are taking online lessons and introducing workshop modules, and artists have been sharing more of their work online on their social media handles and websites.

Artreach has brought together a list in place for artists, educators, researchers, art enthusiasts, care home workers, and children to creatively engage with the wide variety of this material shared so thoughtfully by our extended global community. In times like these, art surely can lift our spirits, bring us hope, and provide solidarity!

Please share this list with friends and your online community. If you are a care home or NGO run school who would like us to lead free online creative learning sessions, please get in touch! And if you have more such interesting links, please email them to us at programmes.artreach@gmail.com and we will put them up on this link!
